AQUATHERM BLUE PIPE MF OT REPLACES CORRODED STEEL IN OFFICE BUILDING

FAMAR is one of Europe’s leading providers of Contract Manufacturing and Development Services to the Pharmaceutical and Health & Beauty industry. Established in 1949 in Greece, the company today operates a network of 11 production sites in 5 European countries, 4 development centers and 3 distribution centers.

aquatherm Hellas successfully conducted a project at one of FAMAR’s office buildings in Athens. The corroded steel pipes and manifolds on the roof were replaced by aquatherm blue pipe MF OT. The steel pipes inside the building will be replaced in project phase 2.

One of the arguments to claim the project – since the renovation is partial and the inside-the-building part remains steel – is that aquatherm blue pipe MF OT will protect the steel pipe parts from oxygen that would penetrate from standard polypropylene pipes.

Another important reason is that aquatherm Hellas lent the butt welding machine for free, and trained the installation crew to use it properly.

This is another great reference for aquatherm blue pipe MF OT strengthening the OT trend and creating further headaches to our competitors and imitators by making them lose projects and weakening their position at their customers as they are unable to supply oxygen tight pipes.

Famar office building:

Location:	Athens
Type:	Office building (large complex with parking spaces, offices, restaurant and Starbucks)
Materials used:	aquatherm blue pipe MF OT
Status:	Completed, but more business will come sooner or later
Comments:	Large manifolds came from Attendorf, the smaller were fabricated by aquatherm Hellas

FAREWELL TO ALOIS SIELER, HEAD OF INTERNATIONAL SALES

On the international event of his eleventh ISH, Alois Sieler was already seen off after 21 years of seniority. As the representative of the whole management, Dirk Rosenberg thanked him for his dedication and praised him as a reliable and highly competent person. "Looking back, it was the best career decision to come to aquatherm," said Alois in his speech.

In addition to the official farewell at ISH, an internal company celebration took place in June. There, Alois was said good bye by his colleagues, other heads of department and the management. Also his family could not be missed: his wife Annette, the two daughters Maren and Lena, his son Simon and his two grandchildren Pepe and Nora participated as well.

Managing director Dirk Rosenberg presented him as symbolic gift a baton with the data of his company employment. His successor, Jorge Quintana, also received such a baton.

Since 1st February 1996 Alois had been leading the international sales with heart and passion. On 30th June 2017, he entered into his well-earned retirement. We wish him all the best and are happy with him that he can now spend more time with his family, and especially with his grandchildren.

In order to pass on his experience from over 20 years at aquatherm to his successor, Jorge Quintana has already started his work with us on 1st of September 2016 and officially took over as Head of International Sales on 1st July 2017.
